STRIKE FOUND GUILTY

R. B. Russell, one of the eight Winnipeg strikers, has been found guilty of the charges of sedition and conspiracy. He was declared guilty by unanimous vote of the jury, after an extended trial and in spite of the greatest exertions of a clever lawyer to convince the jury that he was innocent. It is understood that the case will be appealed. Justice Metcalfe laid down the law to the effect that it was illegal for a strike to continue, it was illegal for men to conspire to commit acts that would endanger the general citizens; that intimidation during a strike was illegal and that picketing, under Canadian law, was illegal.

The judge also expressed the opinion that a man might legally think that the Sedition Act was unconstitutional, but a good man, so long as he did not intend to convey to others the desirability of the institution of such a Government for Canada. If he advocated the adoption of such a Government in Canada, and was always attacking the Canadian Government, and if such action was liable to cause a breach of the peace, then he might be liable to be sectioned. In other words, he who advocated a certain line of political action that, in the minds of the jury, might cause a breach of the peace, was guilty of sedition. It was not necessary to cause a revolution. Action that might tend to one was all that was needed to bring a conviction.

Seditionist strikes are illegal, no such situation as that which obtained in Winnipeg during the O. B. U. strike can be tolerated. This is the situation on the part of the judge. He will meet with much objectivity, we imagine, from the Labor men. The sympathetic strike is much in evidence in Great Britain, and it is looked upon as one of the trade union weapons that may be used as occasion requires. Carried to extreme, such a striking up of the觉悟 of the whole city, as a means to compel compliance with labor's demands, may be declared illegal, but where it is for the best interests of their country, trades union should be a guarantee of superiority of workmanship.

strong desire to make a proper use of their wealth. Their money has not been spent in vulgar display or ostentatious living, but much of it has gone for the promotion of the same. His desire to bring health and long life to all men and women is a passion with Rockefeller, and he is willing to spend his means without stint in such a mission.

GREATER PRODUCTION NEEDED

The December issue of Industrial Canada, the official organ of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, has an article stating that production in Canada is falling off, and that it is a fact that the aggregate output of all our factories is considerably below that of 1914. It is also stated that for this state of affairs, it is necessary that the Government, if it does not stick by the appointment he has already made.

The United Farmers of East and North Middlesex are protesting against the appointment of Miss Walker as registrar up there. They argue that they were contemplating recommending another person for the job. They should not have done this sort of thing been able to do it, as Mr. Goyette, Mr. Bassett, who makes a mistake if he does not stick by the appointment he has already made.

The Bradford Expositor protests against holding another plebiscite on the liquor question. They argue that the recent one would be sufficient to force the Canadian Government that it should be willing to make the Province bone-dry should the Provincial Legislature ask it to do so. Has our contemporary heard that the Liberty Leaguers have prevailed upon Mr. Drury to recount the vote in some of the constituencies?

For Christmas a more delightful or reasonable day than yesterday could scarcely have been imagined. There was snow on the ground, enough to give it a pleasant wintry look, the air was bracing, and the sun shone with a warmth that banished the gloom of winter. It was a happy and a merry Christmas, and was singularly free of snarling that marred the general rejoicing. There were no disagreeable scenes on the streets.

The other day the Hon. Mr. Raney, the Attorney-General, was denounced by some farmers' unions because he had appointed a woman to a position in the public service. Now the Hon. Mr. Nixon, the Provincial Secretary, is being threatened over his appointment in London, the same associations, believe, that he would have a say in the appointment. If the farmers have to take this stand in regard to public office we might as well recall Sir William Hearst to his old job.

If it be true that the Canadian workmen are behaving both in the quality and quantity of their work, it is a credit to the country and for themselves as well, if such be the case we must attribute it to the unrest and the dissatisfaction of the workmen as it affects themselves. They are as content with their work as a good many others, but a good deal more so than they were.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Wishes for a Happy New Year are now in order.

The mountain by-law should have the support of the electors.

Those who neglect to vote on Tuesdays next should be branded as slackers.

It is not too late yet for Mayor Booker to tell the citizens just what he has done for them.

We admit that if there were no gambling at race tracks they would be unable to draw the crowd. The gate money is one thing and the betting money is another.

We are pleased to learn that the merchants did a splendid Christmas trade. The people had the money to spend and they spent it. Let the money circulate seemed to be the idea.

New York Sunday papers are now selling at ten cents a copy. Increased cost of newspaper and everything else is the reason, and still Hamilton papers are being sold at one cent a copy.

Fifteen hundred Germans are to be tried by the Allies for crimes committed during the war. The Kaiser is among the crowd. He will have an opportunity to prove that Britain began the war.

The eight-hour day and the forty-four hour week is what the Labor men ask from Mr. Drury. If granted, it could only apply to certain sections of the community. Still it is something to be aimed at.

That appeal for the starving thousands of Armenian children is a touch one, but it would be more success if those who make the appeal could devise some plan to go after the money, instead of having it brought to them.

The St. Catharines Standard has an article condemning the Dominion Government for its shabby treatment of the letter carriers in the matter of wages and protesting against the low rate of postage granted to the news-paper.

Two years ago Professor Jordan of the University of Virginia made a careful study of the effects of the war upon the health and happiness of their youth and their resources to the end that democracy be saved.

For the last two years, if your board should see fit to use any part of this new gift in promoting medical education in Canada, such a board would meet with my cordial approval.

Mr. Rockefeller does not specify what universities he means to support with this money, but leaving it to the trustees to decide. It is his desire, however, that the Canadian medical schools should participate in his benevolence to the extent of $5,000,000, on condition that these schools or colleges raise additional funds themselves.

He has a very friendly feeling for Canadian schools.

"The Canadian schools are our near neighbors. They are closely bound to us by ties of race, language and international friendship, and they have within their own communities and their youth and their resources to the end that democracy be saved.

Such has been said derogatory of the means by which Mr. Rockefeller has made his millions and made of them a great fortune. But the system was in doubt as much to him as he was, and perhaps he only did what others would do. But both he and his son have shown a strong desire to make a proper use of their wealth. Their money has not been spent in vulgar display or ostentatious living, but much of it has gone for the promotion of the same.

Lower River Never Has Been So Choked Up With Ice.

Quebec, Dec. 25.—The Canadian Merchant Marine steamer Spinner is stuck almost helplessly in the ice sea in the lower St. Lawrence. The ship's rudder is broken. Efforts so far to reach the stranded ship have failed. The ice pack is the worst in the history of the St. Lawrence, it is said. The Spinner has been battling against the drifts in the river for a week, and reports indicate that her hopes of getting out of trouble are not bright.

Great ice floes prevent help from being sent from Quebec, and now efforts are being made to have a ship go from Newfoundland or Sydney to assist.

The Spinner this morning was reported by wireless of having been stuck eight hours from Quebec. The ice floes cover the river from shore to shore.

Efforts yesterday and to-day the Canadian Government ice-cutter, Lady Grey, put out of Quebec Harbor in an attempt to reach the Spinner and help her out of her trouble. The efforts were unsuccessful, however, and the Lady Grey is to-night back in Quebec, having been unable to reach the ship in attempting to reach the drifting steamer.

It is understood that the management of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Merchant Marine have been put in now negotiating for the ship to be towed to a port filled up with the Gulf and the Lower River to help the Spinner.

A regular sealer would be about the best choice for the task, as the condition of the ice, and it is intended that this sealer, leaving Newfoundland without delay, would proceed up the river to meet the Spinner as she comes somewhere of Fane Point.

Orbits were given to-day for the drifting of such a ship and the instructions sent out carried a particular mention for that vessel to take on board the Spinner when she reached the Canadian Spinner. But will it be later escape before help reaches her, or will she be caught in the drifts again?

Efforts to reach the Spinner have been made by the Canadian Merchant

Marine, and the Spinner is stuck in the ice, and the Lower River is now being held up.

CANADIAN RECRUIT GONE.

As for the Canadian Recruit, who rounded early this year at Tadoussac, he is not expected to arrive before winter. At high tide she was with her crew, but when ice came she was under a good eight feet of water.

The heavy winter seas and storms will be hard on her, they say, to brave the Lady Grey, which is stuck in such a churning sea of ice floes.

The recent peculiar phenomenon is that all ships have to had an influence over the climatic conditions of the lower river.

The heavy drifts of ice and the heat of last fall and of the unseasonable amount of floating ice on the river.
